Peninsula Officials See Good 1978

By VERN KROGH

The coming year will bring growth to San Mateo County — but not the kind of growth we have had before.

It will be a gradual growth, a maturing growth and not the dynamic growth of the past.

There will be no population explosions and what population growth will occur wll be mostly in multiple housing unit structures.

If there is industrial growth, it will be in "light, light industry," and if there is commercial growth it will be mostly in service areas and in professional and executive offices.

Companies which move to San Mateo County will be less conscious of the cost of land than of the welfare of their skilled employees and highly trained technicians.

San Mateo County will reach a level of maturity equal to that of any area in the nation.

This is the consensus of business economists, real estate interests, bankers and promoters and politicans alike.

"I feel optimistic about the continued slow business growth of San Mateo County," says Ronald G. Boyer, vice president and general manager for commercial real estate company Coldwell Banker in San Francisco.

"It has not been a dynamic area, but I see continued growth despite the high cost of land."

While the big manufacturing companies will look elsewhere, such as to the East Bay and the San Joaquin Valley, Boyer predicted that, "The most profitable businesses will continue to grow in San Mateo County."

Boyer said he is "looking for an increase in the upward trend" in the county's economic picture during 1978."

He noted the differential in the costs for office space in San Francisco and San Mateo County are all in the county's favor.

Firms that will come to the county, Boyer predicted, will "be light, light industry, where people are important, where talent is important and where you need high resource people.

"It will be the smaller, lighter industries, where skill is important. It is this type of industry that will proliferate."

According to Thomas R. Graves, economist for Security Pacific Bank, the economic outlook for the county "is one of a slowing in the pace of growth reflected in the expected more modest expansion of the national and state economies."

Over the long haul, Graves predicted, the county's economy "appears to be headed down a path of moderate but sustainable economic expansion."

As far as employment is concerned, Graves sees the brightest fields in finance, insurance, real estate, retail trade and services.

On the opposite side of the coin, Graves predicts little increase in manufacturing employment during 1978.

Non-manufacturing employment grew about 3 percent in both 1976 and 1977, according to Graves, and he anticipates a growth of about 2 percent in 1978. He sees a

D.C. Has 7 Up for Vote

Daly City's council race closed out Tuesday at noon with a seven-way race for three seats.

Last to file Tuesday was Ronald Bates, a former area newspaper editor and County Board of Education member. Bates resides at 5 Coronado Drive, Apt. 138.

Edna Bunny Lycett, widow of longtime Daly City Mayor Bernard Lycett, had taken out nominating papers Friday but did not return them by the Tuesday noon deadline.

Six other Daly City council candidates have filed for the March elections, including two incumbents, Wiliam J. Schumacher, 160 Werner Ave.; and Victor G. Kyriakis, 80 Cliffside Drive.

Challengers who have filed for the three council seats include James Tucker, 173 Mirada Drive; Jane Powell, 1461 S. Mayfair Ave.; Catherine McGrath, 137 Shipley Ave.; and O. Edward Salonga, 464 Verducci Drive.

Salonga earlier had turned in papers which contained signatures of Daly City residents who had not registered to vote.

When City Attorney Albert Polonsky ruled that Salonga could complete another set of nominating papers, the candidate returned a second set of documents Friday.

The City Clerk's office was checking the new signatures late Friday.

Colma's field of candidates for the vacant post of city treasurer closed out at noon Tuesday with three candidates.

They are Joseph Messina, a former Colma planning commissioner; Julie Taylor, owner of Pets Rest Cemetery; and Wallace Honeywell, a former councilman.

Colma's other race — for two City Council seats — closed out Friday with three candidates.

They are incumbent Mayor Eugene Daneluz, veteran councilman Raymond Ottoboni Sr. and challenger Emilio H. (Ray) Lencioni.

City Clerk Frances Liston is unopposed in her bid for a first full term in the clerk's position.

D.C. to Decide Dump

Daly City's City Council was expected to decide Tuesday night whether to go ahead and construct the Mussel Rock Transfer Station without assurance that Pacifica will use the garbage compacting facility.

If Daly City decides to construct the nearly $1 million Coastside facility and Pacifica declines to process its 70 tons per day of garbage there, the transfer station could experience financial difficulties.

An alternative to proceeding with Mussel Rock construction would be to drop the project entirely and look at contracting with the San Francisco transfer facility.

Daly City's City Council was due to make a decision on the transfer station in a special meeting at 8 p.m.

Daly City City Manager David Rowe said Tuesday that he had not decided finally how he would recommend on the matter.

Rowe said he would go over cost figures and sources of dump revenue before the Tuesday night meeting.

The city manager was vacationing Friday when a meeting of the Daly City-Pacifica joint garbage committee broke up abruptly after 15 minutes of sometimes heated discussion.

Both Daly City Mayor Albert Teglia and Councilman Anthony Giammona and Pacifica councilmen Nick Gust and Mark Savage refused to budge on their previously stated positions regarding transfer station construction.

The committee has been deadlocked for more than a week on the following issues:

MANAGER SALARIES — Pacifica wants to allow only $33,000 yearly salaries to the two station managers, partners in the Daly City Scavenger Co. Daly City believes it should allow $36,000.

PROFIT ALLOWANCE — Daly City wants to allow the operator, the scavenger company, a maximum 7 percent profit allowance, while Pacifica wants to draw the line at 5 percent.

CONTRACT TERMS — Daly City would like a contract with an option allowing termination after seven years, while Pacifica is asking for a 10-year, noncancellable contract.

When Pacifica City Manager Don Weidner suggested at the meeting that Rowe had said there might be room for concessions on both sides, the four councilmen ignored the opening.

Both sides commented that they were willing to hear a change in the other side's position only.

After some silence, Gust said "We wasted everyone's time with this meeting and I'm sorry I came up here (to Daly City City Hall)."

Rowe said later that he believed there could be a compromise, but neither side apparently agreed with him.

The city manager said action would have to be taken Tuesday, since the contractor selected by the scavenger company a month ago could not hold his bid any longer.

Rowe said he is "firmly convinced that it would be substantially more expensive for Pacifica's Coastside Scavenger Co. to hall its garbage directly to Ox Mountain dump" rather than compact it and transfer it to large trucks at the Mussel Rock station.

Pacifica's Gust and Savage, however, have said they believe direct haul would result in a small savings.

Rowe said that in his opinion the Coastside Scavenger Co. would experience major equipment problems with direct haul using garbage trucks.

Broadmoor Deadline Feb. 28

Police Pact Talks to Begin

By NANCY STANCILL

Time is running out for the Broadmoor Police Commission.

Concerned that the district has been unable to secure a liability insurance proposal, the commission will begin setting up talks on possible service contracts with the San Mateo County Sheriff's Department and the City of Colma.

A temporary service contract with Daly City will expire Feb. 28.

Unless the Police Commission is able to find insurance or settle a service contract by then, police protection for the unincorporated area of 7,000 will be in limbo again.

The Broadmoor Police Department ceased operations Dec. 31, 1976, when its liability insurance was cancelled.

Since then, Broadmoor has contracted with Daly City, except for a brief period last summer when it was served by the San Mateo County Sheriff's Department.

Randy Wall, newly-elected commission secretary who has worked on insurance arrangements, said the commission has two brokers, an agent and a company working in Broadmoor's behalf.

But he said nothing has come up since a tentative insurance quote was cancelled a few weeks ago, leaving the commission with an offer only for partial coverage.

Wall, who had campaigned on a promise to get the independent department back in service by Jan. 1, is "disappointed" that the target date has passed without the reorganization of the department.

He said he's still "hopeful" that the department will be back in service by the time the Daly City contract expires Feb. 28.

"I think the chances are excellent that Broadmoor can meet that deadline," he said of resuming operations by the end of February.

He pointed out that the only alternative to independent operations is contracting, so he said the district "is willing to talk to anybody who is interested."

Wall believes the prime candidates for contracting are the Sheriff's Department and the Colma Police Department. He said representatives of both agencies have expressed their interest recently in pursuing a contract.

The commissioner said he has not heard from Daly City regarding a permanent contract.

When the former Police Commission and Daly City attempted to institute a seven-year, non-cancellable service contract last June, it was struck down by the courts. Wall was one of the litigants opposing the long-term contract.

Wall said the commission is willing to listen to an offer from Daly City, but commented that he believes the Broadmoor residents would prefer an arrangement with the Sheriff's Department or as another alternative, Colma.

Daly City officials have said that the city would be interested only in a long-term arrangement with Broadmoor, since the city would have to hire the Broadmoor police officers as permanent Daly City employes.

Colma's Chief Jim Dorris had little comment on the city's possible interest in a Broadmoor contract, but said he believed that the city would be approachable by the Broadmoor commission.

Assistant Sheriff Harold Barker said the Sheriff's Department "is in a good position to provide services. I think we've proven that when we were there on an interim basis."

Barker said the price of services with the Sheriff's Department would depend "on the variety of services that the people want."

Daly City currently is charging the Broadmoor district $103,000 for six months of service.

Arrest Ends Shooting Spree

Daly City police Tuesday still were trying to find out why a 27-year-old man went on a shooting binge with two pistols Friday night at his 819 Hanover St. home, hitting five vehicles and at least two other homes nearby and keeping 32 police officers at bay for almost six hours.

Police were called at 4:36 p.m. about shooting on Hanover. The first police car responding also was shot at, officers calling for help. Twenty Daly City officers and 12 from outside agencies eventually formed the cordon around a two-block area, from which residents were evacuated.

The last shot came from the house at 5:30 p.m. Police said they tried to contact the gunman by phone and on a bullhorn, but got no response.

Hernandez's wife arrived home from work at about 8:30 p.m. and told officers no one was home but her husband.

Riot garb-clad officers made their move at 8:45 p.m., breaking windows in the home to try to get voice contact and listen to the gunman's movements. At 9:10 p.m., four tear gas cannisters were fired. Sgt. Ed Lyons said one bounced off a wall and back, filling the air outside with the choking gas and clouding the neighborhood. The three that got inside had no apparent effect, he said.

After the gas cleared, five officers went into the house and after a long and careful search, found the suspect in the master bedroom, in bed and "feigning sleep," according to Lyons.

Arrested was Jesus Hernandez, who was booked at the Daly City jail on suspicion of attempted murder and assault on a police officer.

Hernandez, who reportedly doesn't speak English, was being interrogated through an interpreter.

Police said they found a .45-caliber and a .22-caliber pistol near the bed in which they found Hernandez.

A van parked on the street in front of Hernandez' house looked "like a swiss cheese," Lyon said, adding that the tires on three other civilian vehicles parked nearby also had been hit.

He was taken to Chope Community Hospital in San Mateo for treatment of his wound and was booked later at county jail in Redwood City on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and assault on police officers.

Police said Tuesday Hernandez has refused to talk to them about the incident.

Hernandez pleaded not guilty in Northern District Municipal Court in South San Francisco Tuesday morning to felony charges of assault with intent to commit murder, assault with a deadly weapon, shooting at an inhabited building or vehicle and shooting at a vehicle with intent of bodily harm; and one misdemeanor, malicious mischief.

Bail was set at $15,000 and a preliminary hearing set for 2 p.m. Jan. 17 in the South San Francisco court.

Heavy Pressure to Lower County Spending

By RICK SULLIVAN

In his 24 years as a county administrator, David Nichols has never experienced as much pressure on local government to reduce the size and scope of its spending as he has over the past year.

"Intense attacks on the spending of government tends to go in cycles. But I think we are experiencing more extreme pressure now than ever before" says the county manager.

Nichols, in his first 10 months as this county's chief executive, has attempted to respond to that pressure with purpose.

Such cost-saving proposals as consolidation of the Central and Southern Municipal courts; employment of private enterprise to manage county medical facilities; retention of non-profit organizations to operate special programs, and the successful application for federal and state monies to fund construction of badly needed capital improvements have been introduced by the manager this year and, without exception, supported by the Board of Supervisors.

But his most exciting proposal, one which shows great promise for long-term financial benefits, is novel approach to controlling government money — zero-based budgeting.

Groundwork is now being laid to implement the budgeting procedure next fiscal year. Nichols has mobilized his staff in an intense effort to examine some 39 county programs and to provide recommendations to the supervisors on how the programs can be operated more efficiently than they are now.

The zero-based approach to budgeting treats every county government program as if it is being proposed for the first time. Each program's value and cost is scrutinized.

This is the first time any county in California has initiated this budgeting procedure. San Mateo is likely to be a proving ground.

When Nichols assumed the county manager position last February, he promised to utilize the expertise of the private sector in bringing greater efficienty to county operations.

He wasted little time in fulfilling his pledge.

Early last summer the manager recommended to the supervisors that a firm called National Medical Enterprises be retained to manage Chope Community Hospital and Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center.

The decision came several months after the supervisors unanimously decided to support a centralized health care system in the county and to leave Chope Hospital open. The decision ended years of uncertainty as to the future of the facility.

Supervisors approved a $370,000 per year contract with the Southern California firm following guarded assurances by Nichols that the company would save the county at least the amount of its fee.

And in mid-summer Nichols recommended that the supervisors approved a contract with another private company to manage and operate a skilled nursing facility for mentally ill patients at Cordilleras Center, formerly known as Canyon Hospital, near Redwood City.

Nichols has brought to San Mateo County a philosophy about of how local governments can use business to improve its financial status.

"In some cases private industry can teach government a lot," says Nichols. Private hospitals are operated like businesses, so, why not use the experience of these businesses to run our county hospital like a business?

"The escalating cost of running a county medical facilities — $6 million property tax dollars this year — is forcing government to become more cost accountable. Businessmen can teach us some techniques."

Other areas of county operations which Nichols claims could benefit from the private sector are data processing and the county motor pool.

His staff is studying cost savings which could be accrued if a private firm were to assume operation in these two areas.

Nichols says there is consideration being given to leasing instead of buying county cars and also to asking county employees to use their own cars for county purposes, with appropriate reimbursement for costs.

Another cost-saving program put into effect this year is the centralization of food service out of Chope Community Hospital. Food for hospital patients, plus jail prisoners and senior citizens is being prepared at Chope and delivered to the appropriate locations. In years past, food was prepared at the place it was served.

The county retained a former executive from Saga Foods, one of the largest private caterers in the nation, to direct the centralized program.

The much-debated consolidation of the municipals courts came to fruition this year. A consolidated district comprised of the Central and Southern Judical areas was formed last month.

The consolidation effectively transferred all jury trials from the old Central District to the Southern District in Redwood City. The county expects to save thousdands of dollars in prisoner transportation costs alone by the moving the trials to the same city where the county jail is located.

Conscientious effort by the county manager's staff secured for the county a federal grant to remodel the main jail at the Hall of Justice. The woman's section of the jail will be reconstructed to house male prisoners. This will relieve the present overcrowding.

Another federal grant will pay for construction of a new women's jail in Redwood City.

This past year saw the coming of many new faces in top county positions and the departure of many familiar ones.

M. D. Tarshes resigned as county manager; Dr. George Pickett left as director of Health and Welfare; Henry Tarratt retired as director of General Services; and Donald Woolfe announced he would resign in February as director of planning.

Besides Nichols, Allan Colman arrived to assume the directorship of the newly created Department of Environmental Management.

The prospect of a new year with a new management team working to meet the continuing challenge of reducing the cost of government while at the same time providing the services the county demands, excites the county manager.

moderate increase in personal income in 1978 — about 11 percent.

As personal income increases, consumer spending should follow, he says.

"Taxable sales spurted ahead some 13.3 percent in 1976," he reported, "and when the figures are in, it appears an even higher mark will be reached in 1977."

The growth is expected to continue in 1978.

Although population growth will be only slight during the coming year, about one percent, a "substantial number" of new housing units will be required. Graves predicts while single family units will slow in growth, multiple family structures should increase.

Henry J. Bostwick, general manager of the San Mateo County Development Association, says, "I am looking for a better year during the coming 12 months from the standpoint of employment. A settlement has occurred at the airport, and completion of facilities should take place during the year. And the airport is our major employer."

Bostwick points to the expansion of the United State Steel in South San Francisco.

"The company is putting $2-½ million into its American Bridge Division. Once this is completed it should provide a couple of hundred additional jobs.

"If we can settle where a new shopping center should be located," Bostwick continues, "it should provide another couple of hundred new jobs in the service industry.

"I am optimistic that we will find new housing starts — multiple rather than single," Bostwick said. "We had a pickup this year; 1977 was much better than 1976.

"As far as office buildings are concerned, we should see the biggest jump in the need for executive office space in the next five years. The City of San Mateo has the highest occupancy rate already, and we are getting inquiries for office usage all the time.

"After all," Bostwick went on, "there are 100,000 people who leave the county each day to go to their jobs, and they would rather stay here. I see an upturn during 1978 in the number of skilled, middle management and management jobs.

"The development around Redwood Shores should benefit the entire county," Bostwick predicted. "Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Industrial Park in South San Francisco has a lot of things going.

"Some political issues should be settled," Bostwick warned. "The Convention and Visitors Bureau, for example, is having some problems with its Convention Center. It may not get it in 1978, but we should get it by 1979. No matter where the center is located, it will attract new hotels and motels.

"We had a good year in 1977," Bostwick recalled. "The Airport Plaza was re-opened. PSA put in its new maintenance headquarters at the airport.

"According to our reports, 4,000 to 5,000 new jobs were opened last year, and we must maintain this pace," Bostwick warned. "More and more young people are coming into our job market, and one of our major problems will be to provide employment for them.

"It takes a long time to plan for these things, a three year lead time in many cases. San Mateo is behind in providing administrative and executive office facilities. We must start to plan for these."

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, too, sees the county continuing its normal growth, but he cites the need for property tax relief.

"I expect there will be tax relief enacted into law this year," Papan predicted. "This is something that is long overdue.

"But I do have some concern about the initiative to limit the property tax to 1 percent. This would just mean we would have to find other sources of revenue."

"I don't see any major projects to relieve the present housing shortage," the Assemblyman declared. "Local governments should consider changing their zoning to accommodate more multiple unit housing to meet our needs. We must screen our present housing and determine our needs. This is the only way we shall stabilize the housing situation."

"I think we will continue our growth — both business and residential — but it will be a selected growth," Mayor Marguerite Leipzig of Redwood City, chairman of the Council of Mayors of San Mateo County, predicted.

"It will be affected by water availability, sewage facilities and it will be more and more dictated from above.

"I think, however, we shall continue to have the kind of lifestyle we have learned to enjoy."

Mayor Albert W. Teglia of Daly City expressed hopes that his city will solve many of its problems, such as the parking problem around the BART station and the traffic problem around the Cow Palace.

"We are working on these, and I hope we come up with solutions. It depends on our budget and what money we have."

Teglia expressed the hope "the county will address itself to more equitable ways of assessing taxes.

"We will have a new assessor, and I hope he comes up with something in this direction. The legislature is also addressing itself to tax relief, and I hope something will come about here."

Brisbane Keeps Fingers Crossed On Fund Request

Brisbane officials are keeping their fingers crossed that the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors will act on three requests to pump $112,000 in federal money into the city.

City Manager Brad Kerwin said the city has requested $75,000 in housing rehabilitation funds, $15,000 for a painting program and $22,000 to renovate the Brisbane Community Center.

The funding would be from federal Housing and Community Development Act monies, which the county is in charge of distributing among the smaller cities.

The Board of Supervisors is expected to act on the request this month.

The $75,000 would start up a housing rehabilitation program in the city after the beginning of the July 1 fiscal year, according to Kerwin.

The program, to be directed by the county HCDA staff, would make low-cost housing fix-up loans available to Brisbane residents, he added.

If the rehabilitation program is approved, Brisbane officials would work out the details of setting up program standards with the county.

Kerwin said a housing rehabilitation program is badly needed in the small city, where most of the 3,000 residents live in pre-world War II housing.

"If you're going to do city code enforcement, you've got to have a low-cost loan program," he said.

Kerwin said the request for $22,000 in HCDA funds will help with the renovation of a badly deteriorating building, the Brisbane Community Center.

The center, located at 250 Visitacion Ave., is scheduled to be completely redone under a three-year grant from the state Parks and Recreation Commission.

The grant program has provided $66,000, with another $132,000 to come within the next two years. The money will be spent both to redesign the old center and to create a city park on community center property.

Kerwin said the problem with the funding was that it requires a $22,000 match for each $66,000 the state gives Brisbane.

So, Brisbane is asking the county o match the upcoming state grant and commit another $22,000 in HCDA monies for the third-year funding match.

The $15,000 Brisbane is requesting for a painting program will allow the Neighborhood Services Center, Inc., to coordinate a volunteer program.

Under the proposed program, the $15,000 HCDA grant will pay for purchasing painting materials. Volunteer and federally-funded employees will paint the houses of low-income Brisbane residents who request the service.

Who Owns Site of Brisbane Marina?

Who owns Sierra Point?

Apparently there is some question about the ownership of about 100 acres of garbage fill land in Brisbane on San Francisco Bay.

According to Brisbane City Manager Brad Kerwin, both the state and the Macor Corp., a scavenger company, believe they control the site of Brisbane's proposed $7 million marina project.

Kerwin said he received a call last week from a representative of the state Lands Commission regarding a lease of the underwater area around Sierra Point.

Brisbane is requesting a lease at no cost from the state to build a 600-berth marina there before 1984.

Kerwin said the state representative indicated there would be no problem with the proposed lease, but also that Brisbane did not request the above-ground land as well as the underwater area.

Kerwin said the state official declined to confirm whether the state will claim ownership of the site created by years of garbage dumping, but indicated the official would send documents on the matter to the city manager.

The city intends to use 20 of the 100 acres for its marina development and related businesses at the site.

The California Department of Navigation and Ocean Development has approved a 1978-79 beginning loan of $200,000 to start engineering plans for the marina project. It is expected to lend the city $7 million in stages by 1984.

Kerwin said he does not know if the "new wrinkle" concerning land ownership will hold up planning for the development.

Herman Alcalde assumes the post of president of the Daly City Senior Citizens Club today during a ceremony which will be incorporated into the regular weekly business meeting.

Others who will be installed as members of the club's executive board will be Mrs. Virgel Davis, vice president; Mrs. Isabel Ryan, second vice president; Mrs. Marian Laskey, treasurer and Mrs. Louise Buttle, secretary.

Christmas is over but the nice warm feeling lingers on.

The holidays were a lot happier for approximately 300 persons who received help from Friends Outside. Members of the Pacifica Business and Professional Women collected canned goods as did the members of San Francisco's Calvary Presbyterian Church and members of the Foremost McKesson Management and Employees organization collected toys and goodies which were sorted into Christmas stockings and food packages which were then delivered to the families of men or women who are in prison.

It is a little late to consider a trip to the Pasadena Rose Parade, but the Seattle Rose Parade is still a few months away and Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, tour director for the Fifty Plus Club, is anxious to hear from anyone who might like to join a club on a junket north to Washington's Skagit River country and to Seattle for the Seattle Rose Parade.

The trip is on the June calendar but reservations are necessary now if the arrangements are to be finalized. Last year, when this same jaunt was scheduled, requests for reservations were slow coming in and the trip was cancelled, much to the disappointment of many who planned to make reservations at the last moment. Mrs. Calhan has agreed to re-schedule the trip as a result of the many letters and phone calls she has received which registered unhappiness over the decision to call of the 1977 trip.

If you are a member of the Friends of the Daly City Library, be sure and reserve Jan. 26 for a very special get-together.

Mrs. Virginia Tierney, president of the group, reports that F. Lincoln Walter, husband of the past president, Mrs. Ethel Walter, will show slides of a tour of England and Ireland which he and his wife enjoyed. The Walters spent six weeks sightseeing and their slides include some pictures of less-often seen locales.

There is a good deal of excitement among "Friends" members about the City council approval for a multi-purpose center, including a library with 6,000 square feet, which would replace the old John D. Daly facility which has only 2,000 feet of library space.

If one of your New Year's resolutions is to see to it that you provide your children with more healthy and challenging activities in 1978, you might want to consider the Daly City-Dolphins Swim Team.

Mrs. James Morino, the publicity person representing the Dolphins' parents club, reports a new policy of daily tryouts for team membership.

To qualify, a boy or girl between the ages of five and 18 needs only to be able to swim two laps of the pool at Westmoor High School, using any comfortable stroke. Tryouts will now be held any day, Monday through Friday, at 5 p.m. at the Westmoor pool.

Swimmers must be accompanied by one parent. Parents who are unavailable at 5 p.m. may contact the coach, Chip Zimmerman at the pool, 992-4190, any weekday from 7 p.m. until 7:15 p.m. and alternative arrangements for a tryout will be made.

Midst all the hustle and bustle of the pre-Christmas season, Helen and Bill Corbett found time to express their thanks to some valued associates.

Mrs. Corbett, who just finished her stint as chairman of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild's Christmas Boutique, wanted to do something to say "thank you" to all the guild members who worked with her to make the boutique a success. Her decision was a dinner party for committee members and their spouses. The Corbetts invited the guests for the week prior to Christmas and then prepared cocktails and a sumptuous dinner for the enjoyment of those hard-working volunteers.

Red Cross Opens SSF Health Shop

Health Shop, a free drop-in health education center operated by the American Red Cross, opened today in the South San Francisco Red Cross Service Center, 803½ Linden Ave.

This first-of-its kind program will be offered every Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and the first Saturday of every month from noon to 3 p.m. This Saturday is the first Saturday scheduled.

Health Shop will provide informal health education to the general public, with emphasis on outreach to low-income and minority groups.

Volunteer nurses and health educactors will staff the Health Shop to answer questions, do blood pressure screenings and make referrals. Red Cross is accepting applications from personnel in these fields who wish to volunteer.

Red Cross Health Shop coordinators stress that this is not a diagnostic or treatment clinic.

Health Shop is a program created by Red Cross in direct response to community needs. The American Red Cross conducted a health survey in August and September 1977 in San Mateo County. One of the identified needs was for public health education, a spokesman said.

The Health Shop idea has never been attempted in this county and its operation has the support of both the Public Health Department and the San Mateo County Medical Society.

Morris — Dornlas

Friends and relatives of Maryanne Morris and David Allen Dornlas gathered recently to witness the couple's marriage at St. Gregory's Catholic Church in San Mateo. The newlyweds honeymooned in the Hawaiian Islands.

The Rev. William Worner performed the 3 o'clock ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morris of San Bruno, and the son of Edward Dornlas of San Mateo and the late Bertha Dornlas.

For her wedding Maryanne wore a white chiffon gown with a lace bodice and cuffs and carried a bouquet of white roses, cymbidiums and baby's breath. She was escorted to the altar by her father.

Anne Therese Murphy, the maid of honor, set the style of dress for the bridal party in a rust colored Qiana gown with an embroidered floral overscarf. She and the other attendants carried bouquets of yellow baby roses and peach miniature carnations.

The bridesmaids included Christine Robinson and Rosalie Burket.

Rick Sullivan of Moss Beach performed best man duties and guests were seated by Terry Colvin and John Storey of Burlingame.

A graduate of Crestmoor High School and the University of San Francisco, Maryanne is employed as a library assistant. She has a brother, John Robert Morris.

Dave was graduated from Hillsdale High School and UCLA. He is a professonal photographer. Edward and Richard Dornlas are his brothers.

MINESTRONE SOUP

IT IS WELL WORTH THE TIME AND EFFORT

Soup Stock: Four Bouillon Bones or Beef Knuckles or Beef Shanks, 3 quarts cold water and one tbl. salt. Simmer slowly 3½ to 4 hrs. Remove bouillon bones or knuckles, strain. Let cool overnight and remove fat; yield approximately 2 quarts. ½ cup diced salt pork, ½ cup chopped onions, 1 cup shredded cabbage, ½ cup chopped leeks, white part only, 1 cup diced carrots, ½ cup chopped celery, 1½ cup diced potatoes, ½ cup peas, ½ cup small macaroni broken up, 1½ cups canned tomatoes, 1 cup cooked red kidney beans, 1½ cups grated Parmesan cheese, 2 quarts soup stock, 1 tbl. salt, ½ tsp. pepper.

Cook salt pork slightly, then add onions, carrots, leeks, celery and cabbage, simmer until soft 5 to 8 minutes. Add soup stock and seasoning, boil 15 to 20 minutes. Add potatoes, cook 10 minutes longer. Add peas and macaroni, cook 20 minutes longer, then add tomatoes and kidney beans, let simmer 20 to 25 minutes. Just before serving add grated cheese, stir over low heat until cheese starts melting. 6 to 8 servings.

Serve with a delightful Zinfandel

Bombs Slam Home Need For Protecting Executives

Terrorism Becoming Chillingly Fashionable in This Country

By RICK SULLIVAN

Elwood Hansen is a prosperous Peninsula executive.

He is president of Bay View Federal, controlling a 24-branch office multi-million dollar savings and loan association. He is a supporter of cultural activities and service fraternities. He travels frequently for both business and pleasure. He owns several expensive automobiles, including a Rolls Royce, and a large Hillsborough home.

He also owns a bullet-proof vest, a pistol, a canister of mace and a secret security plan designed by his chief protection officer, Bud Kieler, to protect himself and his family wherever they go, whatever they do.

Hansen is among an estimated 500 Peninsula millionaire executives whose wealth and power have made them potential targets in recent years of insurrectionists bent on using terrorist tactics to gain financial support, plus recognition of their cause.

In the past two years, bombs have been exploded by members of the New World Liberation Front at two Bay View Federal branch offices. Several years prior to the bombings, an extortion threat was made against Hansen and his family.

Terrorism aimed at society's elite is becoming chillingly fashionable in this country in apparent mimicry of the savage exploits of social rebels in European and South American countries. Last week, bandits, armed with machine guns, abducted industrialist Luigi Rossi in Milan, Italy. It was the 70th recorded kidnapping in Italy this year.

"When we read in the newspaper of murders and kidnapping of executives overseas we, of course, become concerned for our own safety here," comments Hansen. "And when the NWLF (New World Liberation Front) comes out with a list of Bay Area executives destined to be killed it's scary.

"Ten years ago if anybody said I'd be wearing a bullet-proof vest and owning a handgun, I'd of thought they were crazy.

"But the time is here. Extortion demands have always been made against junior executives such as branch managers, but never have terrorist activities centered at the top. That is something new," offers Hansen.

Hansen's name is not included on the NWLF list released earlier this year. But he says the list contains the names of many of his friends. Without exception, the executives have taken precautions, in some cases extraordinary safeguards, to protect themselves and their families.

Protection measures include simple to elaborate home and office alarm systems, all types of weapons, bullet-proof vests and car and bodyguards.

Some large corporations have set up command centers to monitor the whereabouts of their top executives.

Another less tangible, yet popular, protection measure is invisibility. By keeping a low profile, many executives believe their chances of being targeted for attack are lessened.

Hansen tends to concur. But he states with emphasis that he will not be forced "underground."

"This is, of course, a personal decision every executive concerned for his safety has to make. I feel that I am a representative of my firm and if there is any opportunity to bring good will to it I will.

"My message," he offers, "is that no person or organization is going to force me underground. I am taking the necessary precautions, and I trust my security explicitly."

For obvious reasons, Hansen is reluctant to discuss in any detail the security plan designed by Kieler for himself and other company executives.

Kieler, however, does volunteer that he keeps photographs and certain personal information of all high level corporate officials to aid authorities in rescuing an employee at a time of crisis.

Hansen says he wears his bullet-proof vest only on occasions when he feels he may be vulnerable to attack — such as at large social or business gatherings. He did not say how often he carries his gun or his mace canister.

Maynard Enos, a former San Mateo County police officer and now a consultant on executive security in Livermore, says he has trained 11 Peninsula executives in the proper use of firearms and security alarm systems. He's given many of those executives vests.

"I would say," remarks Enos, "that if an attack was made on an executive I've trained, the assailant would be in for a big surprise."

Increased awareness of the necessity for personal protection among the Bay Area's wealthier residents began about 1973, security consultants concur, with the new wave of bombings by terrorists organizations.

Bombing targets have included such large corporate enterprises as Safeway Stores, Bay View Federal, Wells Fargo Bank, Shell Oil Co., Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Del Monte Corp., Union Carbide, Coors distributorships, and such execlusive clubs as the Pacific Union and Olympic Country clubs.

The International Association of Bomb Technicians and Investigators has recorded 106 terrorist bombings in the Bay Area from May 1971 to the present.

The association has identified rebel groups responsible for the attacks. They are the Americans for Justice, Weather Underground, Chicano Liberation, New World Liberation Front, Red Guerrilla Army, Emilliano Zapata Unit and the People's Light Brigade.

If the political philosophies differ, the tactical methods employed by dissident groups in this country match closely those used by insurgent organizations in Europe and South America.

The kidnappings, the murders, the extortion demands have spurred corporate officials to intensify the security network around their plants and themselves. Corporations which do not maintain large security forces have reached for help to outside speciality firms.

Elgin Skagg, vice president of Management Security Systems, one of the largest executive protection organizations in the state and a subsidiary of Cal Plant Protection, says his firm has been busier in the last three years than it has since the company was founded in 1967.

"The world tension situation is making many executives very nervous," says Skagg, who estimates that his company services about 100 clients in the Bay Area, a score of whom reside on the Peninsula.

Skagg says he discourages his clients from wearing vests and using weapons. "Most executives don't know which end of a gun a bullet comes out; it's downright dangerous to give them a weapon."

The MSS speciality is bodyguard service. It maintains a cadre of guards who are dispatched for assignment from the company headquarters in Reseda. The guards are equipped with vests and weapons and the electronic gear necessary for a particular job.

MSS recruits and trains guards mostly from the vast pool of former police officers.

"We look for people who can obtain concealed weapons permits without much trouble. Such permits," explains Skagg, "are hard to come by, and it's been our experience that ex-policemen have the least trouble in getting them. We want all our guards to carry guns."

The MSS guards do not meet the stereotype of dark-suited, sunglass-wearing musclemen flanking the sides of a VIP.

"We try to use mature men usually 35 years of age or older who have experience in police and security work and who have more brains than brawn. And we dress our men as average as possible," says Skagg.

His company assigns two guards for each client. The cost is $25 per guard per hour, plus expenses.

If an executive has received threats by a terrorist organization, MSS has the capability to research the background of most known insurgent groups. If guards are requested to accompany an executive on an out of town trip, MSS through affiliate offices throughout the country and through cooperation with security organizations in foreign countries, reconnoiters the executive's destination.

"We sometimes use front men for our clients to travel to a destination before our client arrives," explains Skagg. "We do other devious things I am not at liberty to discuss."

Skagg says MSS guards often are used to escort the wife of an executive on shopping excursions, the children of an executive on the way to school and a corporation's chief fiscal officers in the transportation of large sums of money.

Security consultant Enos also trains executive bodyguards. He said every guard he recruits and instructs is expected to give up his life if necessary to safeguard his client.

"Guards are the buffers between the executive and the assailant," says Enos. "They're employed to take the heat off their clients and if necessary to risk their lives for the executive. If they weren't, they wouldn't be worth a damn."

ELWOOD HANSEN

Also owns a bullet-proof vest.

Skagg says he believes the concern for safety among executives is at this point somewhat "overexaggerated."

"I think that in many cases the executives are overreacting to the tensions in other countries of the world. But we are seeing increased terrorist activities in this country, and it is good that executives are becoming more conscious of the need for adequate security."

Skyline Dramatists Play Two Weekends

A witty, fast paced and funny play, "Not by Bed Alone," will be presented by the Skyline College Drama Dept. during the first two weekends in January in the college's studio theater.

The play will be performed January 5, 6, 7 and January 12, 13 and 14 with curtain time at 8 p.m. for each performance.

Tickets are on sale in the college's box office for $1 each. For reservations call the college, 355-7000, ext. 231 or 234.

The fall semester production will be under the direction of Drama Dept. Instructor Al Melodia and will feature Marcelle D. Castello as the young and vivacious Lucette Gautier and Stanley Young as the handsome and sophisticated Bois D'Enghein in the leading roles.

"Not by Bed Alone," also known as "A Flea in Her Ear" and "Motel Paradisio," is the story of a man, his fiancee and his mistress and includes the mishaps that befall the individuals in this love triangle. Also included in this humorous play are the members of the family and friends who try to solve the various problems.

Also co-starring are Cathy J. Foster of Pacifica as Madame Duverger; Ann Russell as Viviane Duverger; Cheryl Fluehr of Daly City as Marcellne Gautier; Don Paterson of San Bruno as Camille Bouzin; Nathan Peter Johnson of Daly City as Gen. Irrigua; Michael Eckhart of San Francisco as Gaston Chenneviette; Sam Martinez of Daly City as Ignace Fontanet and James Houghton of Daly City as Firmin.

The supporting cast includes Donna Forman, Evan Pappas and F. J. Pratt of Daly City; Burnita Bluitt, George Maes, Chris DeLucchi and Art Hutcheson of South San Francisco; Barbara Panesi, Maryanne Harrington, Dan Pickell, Amos Alexander and Eric Galindo of Pacifica; Karl Berger and Mike Isola of San Bruno; Debi White of Half Moon Bay and Doug Nelson of Redwood City.

ORT Sets Big Gala Jan. 28

The 50th anniversary of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) will be observed by the Northern California Peninsula Region at a Golden Jubilee Gala Jan. 28, at the Sharon Heights Golf and Country Club in Menlo Park.

It will feature a prime rib dinner, program, entertainment and dancing. President of the region, Celeste Ilitzky, has appointed Mimi Dobrow as chairman. Ms. Dobrow announced that the gala will honor Ida and Phil Sonenstein, long time devoted member and supporter of ORT.

Ms. Sonenstein is a past president of the region and both have been active in the local Jewish Community and civic organizations such as the Peninsula Association for Retarded Children and Adults (PARCA).

DAMAGED DOCUMENT

City Names Planner

Thomas H. Miller, Daly City's associate planner, has been appointed acting city planner effective Jan. 1.

Miller will fill the vacancy created by the recent departure of City Planner John Walker, who left the city Dec. 21 to become planning director of Pico Rivera.

Miller was first employed by the City of Daly City as a planning intern from June, 1972 to June, 1973. He then worked as a planner for the City of Beloit, Wis. for 14 months, returning to Daly City as assistant planner in December, 1974. Miller was appointed associate planner in July, 1976.

The acting city planner received a bachelor of arts degree in economics from Carleton College, Northfield, Minn. and a master's degree in city planning at the University of California at Berkeley.

The acting city planner title is expected to be used until decisions are made in the studies of consolidation and reorganization of the public works and community development departments. The reorganization determinations are expected to be made by the City Council before July 1, 1978.

St. Nick Visits Pack 248

Santa Claus visited Cub Pack 248 during its meeting at Thomas Edison School recently, thanks to Rich Rusting of the sponsoring Knights of Columbus, Marian Council. There were presents for each of the Cubs and the younger brothers and sisters, followed by carolling and refreshments.

Earlier in the meeting Chief Lyle Church of the Daly City Fire Department accepted canned goods that the families of the pack had donated to needy families of the community.

Another highlight was a cake decorating demonstration given by George Cyr, one of the parents.

Immediately after the meeting Cubmaster Austin Holian together with the other leaders and some of the boys visited St. Francis Convalescent Pavillion to bring a large cake and candy canes for the residents.

Honored with badges and awards were Mark Schemerhorn, Chris Ridgley, David Schultz, Rodil San Mateo, Roger Niebolt, Paul Mazzoni and Den Chief Tim Abbott of Scout Troop 369.

D.C., Pacifica Workshops On Diet Set

The Diet Workshop has announced "Visitor Week" sessions for Jan. 9 and 10 in Daly City and Jan. 11 in Pacifica.

With no obligation, residents have been invited to learn about the program of diet, nutrition, behavior modification and toning exercises. Pat Strachen and LaVerne Matushinka, both Pacific residents, are the instructor and assistant for the group.

The Daly City sessions will be at 7 p.m. Jan. 9 at the Mental Health Center, 45 Southgate Ave., Daly City, and at noon Jan. 10 in the Wendy Ward Room of the Montgomery Ward store at Serramonte Shopping Center.

The Pacifica meeting will be at 7 p.m. Jan. 11 at the Pacifica Boys' Club building, 955 Yosemite Drive, Linda Mar.

Free recipes also are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116.

DALY CITY DMV OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY (Dave Dornias Photo)

This display of drivers licenses from all over the United States will be one of the displays at the state Department of Motor Vehicles office at 1500 Sullivan Ave. Daly City, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Holding one of the promotion signs is Daly City DMV Manager Buck Buchanan. The open house is to acquaint the public with the new Saturday hours of the Daly City office, one of nine around the state changing from the usual Monday-through-Friday to a Tuesday-through-Saturday schedule in a pilot project to find if it's more convenient for working people to conduct their business. There will be entertainment and visits from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. by several local and state dignitaries, including Daly City Mayor Al Teglia, assemblyman John Foran (D-San Francisco) and Louis J. Papan (D-Daly City) and new DMV Director Doris Alexis.

*3 DC Schools May Close

Administrators in the Jefferson Elementary School District will recommend to district trustees Jan. 11 that three schools be closed because of declining enrollment.

District Superintendent Pete Hansen said today his staff will recommend the district shut down Crocker School, 649 Bellevue Ave., General Pershing School, 631 Hanover St., and Abraham Lincoln School, 101 Lake Merced Blvd., in Daly City.

All three schools — kindergarten through sixth-grade classes.

Hansen said the Board of Trustees, upon receiving the staff recommendation, probably will set up a series of public meetings in the affected areas.

The elementary school district, which serves Daly City and Colma, experienced its peak student enrollment in the early 1970s, with 10,000 students. This school year, enrollment has declined to 7,200, and by next fall, only 6,800 students are expected.

The JESD has 16 elementary and three intermediate schools.

Hansen said no teacher layoffs are expected as a result of school closures.

"The closing of schools doesn't eliminate the students," he said, "and we anticipate that no teachers will be let go."

Daly City AARP To Meet Jan. 9

Daly City Area Capter 1541 of the American Association of Retired Persons will have its next meeting Jan. 9 at the Westlake Community Center, 145 Lake Merced Blvd., Dlay City.

Guest speaker will be Carla D. Curtis, aquatics supervisor of the Recreation Center for the Handicapped in San Francisco and who also is a ski and tap dance instructor. "her talk will be about seniors activities, especially about those who have had strokes, arthritis, etc.

Chapter officers for a 1978 are: Lucille Herzo, 47 Fairlawn Ave., Daly City, president; Lucille Meighan, 1176 Nimitz Drive, Colma, first vice-president; Eugene Almy, 66 Yacht Lane, Daly City, second vice-president; Robert Williams, 664 Niantic Ave., Daly City, secretary;

San Mateo County's Nursing Home Ombudsman Program got off to a flying start this week. Checking the new phone installed at their offices at 2121 El Camino Real, Room 315, in San Mateo are, from left: Sybille Gordon, assistant director; Pat Lavin, who headed the 20-member committee that started the program; and Brendan Horan, director. Volunteers are urgently needed to set up a communications network with nursing homes.

Area Nursing Homes Look for Volunteers

By TERRY DAVENPORT

The Nursing Home Ombudsman Program of San Mateo County is recruiting volunteers interested in working at nursing homes.

The program, which aims to resolve problems between residents and administrators of nursing homes before they are carried to the state level, will focus on seven nursing homes in Millbrae, Burlingame and San Mateo for the next six months.

Brendan Horan, program director, explained that he has visited the administrators of these nursing homes and has been assured of their cooperation.

One administrator remarked that the ombudsman program sounds like a welcome change at a time when most people are knocking nursing homes.

Already operating successfully in other counties, the program recently received its initial budget of $11,111 for operation in San Mateo County through June 1978.

The national ombudsman program began in 1971, when the Department of Health and Welfare awarded contracts to four states for initial programs. Those programs were copied by other states. California appointed its first state ombudsman in 1975.

Working an average of two to three hours each week, volunteer ombudsmen become acquainted with nursing home residents, their families and the staff of each home.

"Impartial, independent and unbiased" are the words Horan uses to describe the ideal ombudsman.

The ombudsman's goal is to verify and investigate every complaint he receives and to make recommendations. Ombudsmen are not supposed to go "witch hunting," rather, they should serve as impartial mediators.

In addition, the ombudsman helps nursing home residents resolve problems associated with daily living, such as estate planning and tax filing, by putting them in touch with appropriate agencies.

The state ombudsman will conduct three training sessions for local ombudsmen beginning Jan. 20. Further training will be offered in a course given at Canada College during the spring semester.

Four nursing home administrators, a director of a senior center, a social services director, a physician, a professor of gerontology and an attorney for Senior Advocates are among those on the Ombudsman Advisory Board, which oversees the program.

Horan encourages those interested in becoming ombudsmen to contact his office at the Bay View Plaza Tower, 2121 S. El Camino Real, Room 315, San Mateo.

Volunteers are most urgently needed in the San Mateo, Burlingame and Millbrae area, he said.

SSF Lifesaving Class

A 20-hour American Red Cross Advanced Livesaving class will be offered Sundays Jan. 16 through March 6 from 6 to 9 p.m. at Orange Park Pool in South San Francisco.

Participants must be at least 15 years old and must pass a swim skills test preceding formal acceptance into the class (50 yards using crawl, side and breaststroke; dive and underwater swim of 20 feet; tread water one minute).

Pool fees for the class are $10 for South San Francisco residents, $15 for nonresidents. The Red Cross lifesaving kit, containing textbook and related materials is $5 for all participants regardless of residency.

Pre-registration is required. For further information and to register call Red Cross Safety Programs 343-4561 or 589-5864.

Robot Used in North Ireland Finds Home on Peninsula

Bay Area executives, chilled over the recent wave of terrorists bombings, have pledged financial support to the development of a computer cop.

A tractor-like robot — now used by the British Army to defuse and dispose of bombs in Northern Ireland — is scheduled to be delivered this coming year to the local chapter of the International Association of Bomb Technicians and Investigators.

The Hunter robot, as it is called, is being donated by a group of executives, a number of whom have been victimized in recent years by terrorist bombings.

The robot will be made available to all law enforcement agencies in the Bay Area.

Elwood Hansen, president of Bay View Federal Savings and Loan Association, said many Bay Area corporate officials, including himself, have pledged the necessary $20,000 to purchase the device.

Other corporate giants pledging funds include General Motors, the Bank of California, Bank of America, Wells Fargo Bank, Foremost McKesson, Crocker Bank, Southern Pacific, Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Bechtel, Safeway, Amfac and Standard Oil.

The self-powered remotely controlled vehicle, manufactured in Great Britain, can be designed to help lawmen in bomb disposal, hijackings, hostage negotiations, fire fighting and rescue operations.

Local executives want the robot programmed to assume the duties of the human bomb technician.

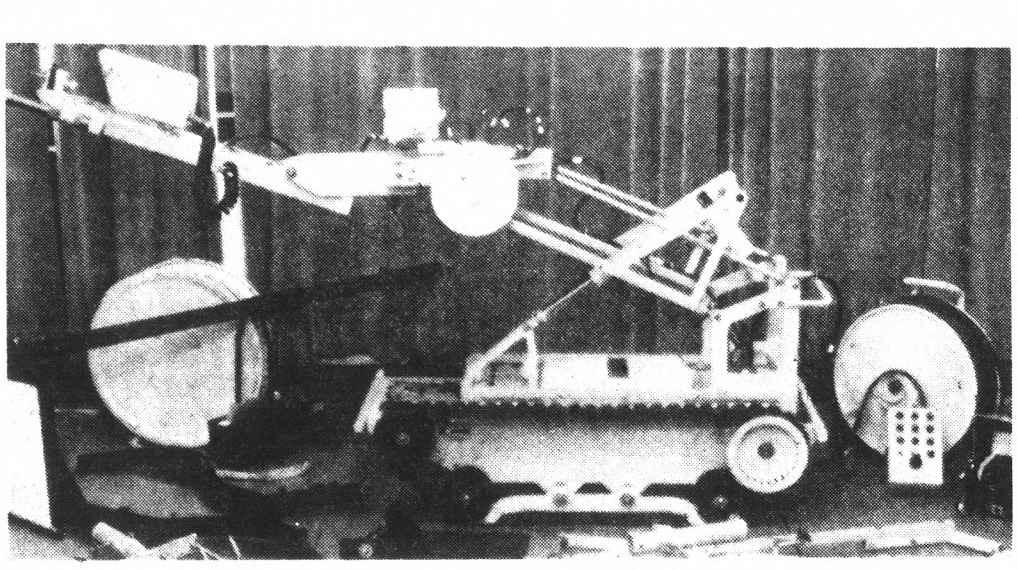
The tracks of the Hunter enable it to negotiate rough ground, such as rubble from a damaged building, and travel up and down stairs. Its small size and mobility allow it to enter confined spaces to reconnoiter, for example, upper rooms or cellars.

All the time, the robot operator can inspect the area in which the robot is traveling from a distance of 100 meters through a monitor that is connected to a camera on the boom of the robot.

The operator can instruct Hunter to X-ray a suitcase or package, to defuse or dispose of any explosive device.

Hunter was born several years ago to act as surrogate bomb technicians. As terrorists become more sophisticated in manufacturing, placing and disguising bombs, the risk to the bomb technician increases.

Hansen says it is the hope of local executives that the robot will prevent injuries to technicians who are called to defuse terrorist bombs.



MACHINES OF WARFARE INVADE EXECUTIVE SCENE

Hunter is described as a self-powered, remotely-controlled, tracked vehicle. It has a variety of attachments, including a "boom assembly".

Baseball's New Re-entry Draft Is Inconclusive

Le Pacini

I don't know how the re-entry draft is going to treat baseball this year, but I do know how it treated it last year — and that, in a word, is inconclusively.

My research indicates that of the 12 teams that I consider to have been large investors in free agents, four made big gains, three suffered big losses, two made modest gains, one made a small gain and two finished right where they had been without the free agents.

OF THE SIX teams that suffered substantial losses in personnel due to the draft, two improved impressively (Baltimore and the Cubs); one (Pirates) gained slightly; one lost something (Cincinnati) on the deal; one (the A's) took a big nosedive; and one team (the Twins) finished where they were to begin with.

The six neutrals (teams that chose to invest not at all or very lightly in free agents) made two big gains (Cardinals, Dodgers), one big loss (the Mets) and three teams (Phils, Giants, Astros) treaded water.

As you can see, inconclusive; though, if one had to pick sides, it probably could be said that those who invested in free agents on the whole came out somewhat better, but probably not in direct proportion to extra games won and extra money paid out.

LEONARD KOPPETT, the resident expert of the Sporting News, did an exhaustive study of what the re-entry meant to baseball, and, having come up with about the same general conclusion as yours truly, claims specifically that the re-entry draft last season demonstrated that:

1. A weak team that signs a couple of big names at great expense does nothing to help itself.

2. A strong team doesn't need big-name free agents to stay strong and is better off using the money to satisfy stars it already has.

3. Teams that lose a star to free agency are not necessarily wrecked.

4. In the rare case where an otherwise strong team may have one fatal weakness and a free agent who can fill that need is available, getting him is probably worth whatever it costs.

5. A weak or mediocre team can improve itself more effectively by spending the same amount of money on upgrading its development program (scouts, minor league managers, instructional programs) and by choosing wisely among the non-star but capable free agents who become available, than by committing too much money to one or two stars, either already on the roster or in the free agent pool.

6. Skillful evaluation of talent, when applied to orthodox trades, will do as much good as free agent shopping, and perhaps more.

THAT'S IT for teams. How did individual players do? I checked out the 24 players who re-entered last season for more money than they had made the year before, and found that 12 made gains in their statistics, seven showed losses and five stayed at about the same level as they had been in 1976.

Sports
And Recreation

Again, the extra money tended to help, but perhaps not in direct proportion to statistics versus dollars.

Statistics aside, my instinct tells me that if a weak team signs one or two super stars, it won't be enough to turn a 25-man roster around, whereas a really strong team wouldn't need one or two super stars, because there wouldn't be anything to turn around.

It may be that the prime value in a good team signing high priced free agents is defensive — not letting rivals get the "free" quality. Look at all of the apparent superfluous free agents the Yankees have been signing and you might see the "defensive" signing trend beginning.

QUICK COMMENTS: I can't understand Pete Rozelle allowing network television to use Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder — an internationally known gambler and bookmaker (to use the crude terminology) — to announce point spreads, when Rozelle admits deep concern over the gambling element in pro football.

How can he possibly poor-mouth to Congress about how legalized gambling shouldn't be allowed in certain states because of the gambling image pro football would take on, and then allow Jimmy the Greek to impose his image on pro football?

About the only saving grace in the affair is that Jimmy basically doesn't know what he's talking about. That may discourage people from using Jimmy's "inside" info to bet, and may eventually sour the public on the while bad, can't-win prospect of betting point spreads.

Can't help but to keep rooting for Dallas running back Robert Newhouse to do well, as he has been since the Monday night two years ago when Howard Cosell called him a mediocre running back . . . and Newhouse then gained 930 yards for the season.

Isn't it ironic, now that the Giants apparently have rid themselves of the A's, that somebody wants to move the Giants to Washington, D.C.? Which is stupid reasoning, because even at its best Washington was never the franchise San Francisco was or could be again.

SOME COLLEGE FOOTBALL STATS: The West dominated big-time college passing statistics as Stanford and Cal finished third and fourth nationally (Stanford 259.6 yards a game, Cal 257.9) behind Brigham Young and Grambling, with San Diego State fifth and Washington State seventh.

In Division II football, the western part of the U.S. dominated total offense, with Portland State, Nevada-Reno and Nevada-Las Vegas finishing tops in the nation in that order. Which explains why Nevada-Reno placed quarterback Jeff Tisdel and tight end Steve Senini on the second team Little All-America team.

Stanford's great little freshman running back, Darris Nelson, finished eighth nationally in all-purpose running. He averaged 152 yards a game.

SOME PRO FOOTBALL STATS: Say what you must about Jim Plunkett, but it could have been worse. According to the way the NFL rates passers, Plunkett finished eighth in the NFC, which meant he was better than somebody. In fact, he finished with virtually as high a rating as Houston's Dan Pastorini, whom the media judged as having an outstanding season; Jim getting a 62.2 score on the rating scale of 100, Dan a 62.6. Cleveland's Brian Sipe, whose injury was felt by many experts to be the main reason for Cleveland's sudden mid-season collapse, had a rating of 61.6, ninth in the AFC, while the Jets' Richard Todd, judged by the press to be a sensational rookie, logged only a 60.6.

Yes, talent judgments and statistics are strange, diverse elements, often seeming to be at opposite poles.

Seattle's sophomore quarterback Jim Zorn is thought by many football people to be the next great NFL passer . . . an explosive offensive entity. Yet, aside from the Giants' who's that? Rookie quarterback Joe Pisarcik and Green Bay's Lynn Dickey, Zorn had the worst rating in the NFL, including the worst passing percentage (41.4) and the worst interception rate (7.6).

TAG END STAT: The Warriors' Sonny Parker has as many steals as the old master, Rick Barry, who logs much more playing time.

ALL FOR ONE, ONE FOR ALL

Capuchino High center Dave Lopp, at 6-6, was the first to get a hand on this rebound Wednesday during a game at Serramonte. Lopp didn't pull it down, but Cap's other front-line musketeers, Tom Fell (25) and Greg Ley (behind Fell) were in position to grab it. Lopp scored 17 points and Mike Mitchell 33 as Cap won the matchup of defending MPL and NPL titlists 80-71.

CapOutruns Serramonte

By TIM MENICUTCH

A running game was forecast, and nobody was disappointed.

Capuchino High's basketball team sprinted to a 24-11 first quarter lead and ran away from host Serramonte 80-71 Wednesday in a non-league clash between two defending league champions — which are also favorites to win again this year.

Defending Mid-Peninsula League champ Capuchino, which upped its non-league record to 9-3, began running at the opening tip. Serramonte was unable to slow the Mustang fast breaks.

Cap guard Mike Mitchell poured in 11 of his game-high 33 points in the first quarter.

Cap reached the peak of its performance midway through the second quarter. With Mitchell directing the offense, the Mustangs rattled off nine straight points in a little over a minute.

Mitchell started the scoring spree with two easy layups, then dished off to teammate Tom Fell, who was fouled on his lay-in.

Mitchell ignited the crowd with the next score, a dazzling one-handed driving layup to put Capuchino ahead 41-21.

Cap led 45-25 at halftime, at that point Mitchell had 10 field goals and one free throw.

Capuchino controlled the boards and Mitchell kept on scoring as the Mustangs continued to dominate, leading 68-50 at the end of the third quarter.

Serramonte made a mild bid half way through the final period. Laron Franklin scored on a fast break pull the Regents within 11 points, 72-61.

But Jim Handley tipped one in and Mitchell sunk two free throws to put Capuchino ahead comfortably 76-61 with 2:30 remaining.

"I was very impressed with our first-half performance," said Cap coach Jimmy Johnson. "We didn't play as well in he second half, but part of our problem was that we were trying different things.

Skyline Wins Consolation

Special to The Times

STOCKTON — Skyline College closed out the year the way a successful team is supposed to Friday night: on a winning note in the annual Holiday Basketball Tournament.

The Trojans, who were relegated to the loser's bracket opening night when they lost a heartbreaking 63-61 decision to eventual champ Pasadena City College, won the consolation title with an 81-67 victory over Los Medanos.

Later in the evening, Pasadena defeated San Joaquin Delta, 89-78, for the title and Contra Costa claimed third place with an 85-72 victory over DeAnza College.

Skyline forward Jerry McNeil, named to the tourney all-star team, put the Trojans ahead for good at the outset of the second half, 40-39, after the locals trailed by one at intermisson.

McNeil went on to score 12 of his 16 points in the second half and ended the game with 14 rebounds. Reserve forward Bob Helmers kept the Trojans in the game in the first half with six field goals — all from the 15-20 foot range.

Skyline makes a rare home appearance (only its second in 15 games) Wednesday when it hosts the San Francisco State Jayvees. It is the final tuneup game before they open defense of their Coast Conference title Jan. 7 against Monterey Peninsula College.

Following is scoring from Delta Tourney.

Championship: Pasadena 89, San Joaquin Delta 78; Third: Contra Costa 85, DeAnza 72.

Consolation:

Skyline 81, Los Medanos 67; 7th: Sacramento City 87, Chaffey 67;

Los Medanos: Bruin 9 2-3 20, Schneider 7 0-1 14, Moffett 4 0-4 8, Jones 2 3-5 7, Larry 3 0-0 6, Lauer 5 2-2 12 Totals: 307-14 67.

SKYLINE: Love 5 4-4 14, McNeil 8 0-0 16, Levesque 5 1-2 11, Malinowski 4 0-0 8, Scott 6 0-0 12, Helmers 8 0-0 16, Broussard 1 2-2 4. Totals: 37 7-8 81.

Halftime Score: Los Medanos 39, Skyline 38.

Castro Leads Ram Cagers

Westmoor High's girls' basketball team spotted Menlo-Atherton a nine-point lead in the first quarter and then slowly crept back to take a 58-56 preseason thriller at Menlo Park Thursday.

The rushing, ball-stealing Rams were paced by the veteran trio of Donna Imsand, Sue Murray and Verna Castro who amassed 51 points for Westmoor. Castro, a terror on the tail end of the Rams' break, led the North Peninsula League favorite with 21 points.

Menlo-Atherton's all-league forward Maureen Wilderink, slammed in baseline set shots to lead all scorers with 22 tallies. The Bears' Shelly Teter chipped in 18 points.

Seniors to Get Park Passes

Some senior citizens soon will be able to obtain a pass good for all of 1978 and 1979 at all day-use areas of the state park system, upon application and payment of a fee of $3.50.

The pass, which is provided under a law adopted by the 1977 legislature, will be issued to any person who receives aid to the aged under the supplemental security income program administered by the Social Security Administration or persons 62 years old or older whose total monthly income from all sources does not exceed $150, if single, or $500 combined income for a married couple.

The pass will admit the bearer and spouse to any day-use area in the state park system except Hearst San Simeon State Historical Monument near the Coast Highway in San Luis Obispo County and Sutter's Fort State Historical Park in Sacramento.

The pass may be used Monday through Friday only. It will not be good for Saturdays, Sundays or holidays. It can't be used for camping or boat launching.

The pass will be available at all units of the state park system, at state park area and district offices and at department headquarters in Sacramento. Senior citizens may obtain an application form by writing to Senior Citizens' Pass, Department of Parks and Recreation, P.O. Box 2390, Sacramento 95811.

KEEP-AWAY

Capuchino High guard Mike Mitchell guards the ball from Serramonte counterpart Ricky Mixon during game Wednesday at Serramonte. Mitchell ran Cap's fast break attack and tallied 33 points. Mixon led Serramonte with 20.

Sand Dune Classic

Westmoor 5 Trounced

By JOHN MURPHY

SAN FRANCISCO — The Sand Dune Classic at St. Ignatius Prep concluded Thursday night and only one local basketball team managed a victory on the final evening of competition.

Aragon upheld county cage prestige by escaping with a 57-55 win over Wilson of San Francisco. A couple of other county teams didn't fare so well against City teams. Crestmoor lost to Washington, 78-58, and Westmoor was crushed by Balboa, 97-55.

The "Classic" isn't really a tournament in the true sense of the word. What it amounts to is a series of pre-planned, non-league games all held at the same location.

But the absence of trophies, tournament queen and large crowds didn't dampen Aragon's competitive spirit. The Dons generally played well during the tourney and wound up winning two games out of three against good competition.

Aragon led Wilson 22-16 at halftime and then expanded that lead to 48-39 after three periods. But suddenly Aragon's fast break wasn't materializing and its jump shots stopped falling.

Wilson began sweeping the boards clean at both ends of the court and eventually clawed its way back into the game by scoring the first 12 points of the quarter.

Aragon finally broke the ice with 2:28 left on a follow shot by guard Sam Vaka but by that time the Dons trailed 51-50.

Wilson attempted a delay but forced up a shot and missed. Aragon whipped the ball downcourt to sophomore guard Ken Powell who scored on a lay-in and was fouled. he converted the three point play to put the Dons ahead by two and Wilson never recovered.

Aragon's super sophs — Powell and forward Gary Williams — had 14 points each. Forward Charles Patton also paced Aragon's attack with 12.

Crestmoor was tied with Washington at eight apiece midway through the first period but Washington ran off the next 12 points in a row and never look back. Center Roy Raymond topped the losers with 12 points.

Westmoor, playing without pivotman Sheldon Scott, was no match for the taller and quicker Balboa Bucs. Balboa led 51-25 at the half and continued to outscore Westmoor by pressing the Rams mercilessly the rest of the game.

Guard Tony Limutau led Westmoor with 12 points and forward Mark Navarro added 11.

Samuel Chandler

"San Mateo County, California, is the place" wrote Elbert Hubbard.

"Different in situation, unique, peculiar — the locality where mountain, sky, sea, bay, lakes and meadows blend into a topological symphony."

In 1915, Hubbard found liberty in San Mateo County: "religious, social and political." He found food to be plentiful "and the high cost of living has no terrors . . . In San Mateo County repair equals waste — if anywhere in the wide world. Happiness abounds because the conditions are right."

"If one wants adventure," Hubbard wrote, "here it is. Also, here is gold galore if you work for it — and I am told that that is the only way to get it."

Sixty-three years later, gone are the jack rabbits and cottontails that Elbert Hubbard saw on the road near San Francisco; gone are many of the orchards and most of the garden patches that Hubbard saw growing in the "great natural phenomenon of fog, sunshine and water."

But what of the liberty — is it gone, too?

THE ANSWER is a qualified No. In an era of proliferating cities, hundreds of citizens are participating in government as members of councils, boards and study groups. Even now a citizens committee is reviewing the San Mateo County charter to "come up with a version that works for the 1970s and 1980s." Moreover, more San Mateo County people than ever before in the county's history are attending the meetings of city and county councils and those of school boards, and are demanding to be heard. Such activity, as Daniel Webster said, "makes government answerable to the people."

On the other hand, at the dawn of 1978 we see in the cities of San Mateo County some traces of a situation that Ralph Waldo Emerson described as "a government of bullies."

Bullies are blustering, browbeating fellows who intimidate councilmen and board members with their gusto and their incessant criticisms. They speak on every issue, oppose every proposition and abuse every office holder. Bullies seek to dominate every meeting, thus cutting off debate when it is most needed. Bullies always seek a whipping boy or boys: the city staff, the mayor, the manager, the superintendent of schools, the teachers, this supervisor or that, anyone who seems vulnerable.

AMONG THE bullies that beset San Mateo County are some writers who are like the news hawks that Samuel Johnson found attacking with rabble rages and fire. As Alexander Pope wrote, here are "tall bullies that lift the head and lie." Their motto seems to have been lifted from John Fletcher's "Wit Without Money": "Write, write, write anything— The world's a fine believing world."

There is no place for bullies if liberty is to remain in San Mateo County and if government is to keep nature in a symphony and hold down the cost of living and the other terrors that Hubbard found missing in 1915.

San Mateo County has no place for persons with vendettas against the county government or against this city or school board or that. Too many people depend upon the government agencies to have them subjected to petty hatreds.

SAN MATEO COUNTY has no place for people who place their special interests above the good of the residents of the county.

San Mateo County has no place for uninformed citizens who vote with no knowledge of the issues of the election. Of such people, H. L. Mencken said "their natural gait is the goosestep."

In 1978 San Mateo County needs citizens who are adventurous in government and otherwise and who are willing to work for the gold that may yet be found within the county.

TODAY, just as in 1915 when Elbert Hubbard wrote, you can "behold a better day, when the beauties of San Mateo County are given up to the people, to all the people, as a playground and a place of study, of rest, of recreation . . . You see the San Mateo of beautiful homes, of smiling gardens, of fruits and flowers, of schools and playgrounds."

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Recently the Fourth National Beef Cook-Off was held in Columbus, Ohio. The contest was open to anyone not connected professionally with food. Entries were limited to dishes using beef chuck, round, rump or fresh brisket and using between two and five pounds of beef. The total cooking time could not exceed four hours.

This recipe for Teriyaki Beef Roast won second prize for a lady from Oregon.

TERIYAKI BEEF ROAST

4 to 5-pound beef blade roast
½ cup orange juice
¼ cup soy sauce
¼ cup sherry
¼ cup cooking oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon ground ginger

Pierce the beef deeply on both sides with fork and place in utility dish. Mix the half cup orange juice, fourth cup each soy sauce, sherry and cooking oil, minced clove garlic, one teaspoon sugar and half teaspoon ginger and pour over meat.

Cover and place in refrigerator to marinate at least three hours (overnight if desired), turning occasionally.

Remove meat from marinade and place on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is four inches from heat. Broil six minutes on each side. Place meat on rack in roasting pan and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) approximately 25 minutes for rare or 30 minutes for medium rare. Slice diagonally across the grain. Six servings.

THE SECOND OF THREE

Mel Hanson, battalion chief of the Daly City Fire Department, will retire Jan. 15 after 36 years with the department, including nine years as a volunteer fireman. Hanson is in the middle of three generations of Daly City firefighters. His dad, Fritz, was one of the city's early fire chiefs, while his son, Jay, is now with the department. As for retirement plans, the 59-year-old Hanson says, "I'll just lay around and take care of the new home I just bought in San Jose." Hanson is a native of Daly City.

Board Can't Gloss Over Dental Plan

A minor disagreement surfaced Wednesday night over a proposed change of employee dental plans by the Jefferson Elementary School District, with both the district's major employee groups protesting it.

Classified, mainly non-teaching, employes and the district's teachers now are covered by a district-paid contract with California Dental Service, which claims some 14,000 dentists in California, more than 90 percent of the total in the state, contracted to it for services at specified rates.

The district notified both the California State Employees Association, representing classified personnel and the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association, the teacher group, that it was considering switching to a Great West Insurance Co. plan as of Jan. 1.

CDS has announced rate increases effective then, which the district has calculated will cost it $6,640 more through June 30, 1979.

Tom Matteoli, a CSEA field representative, and Virginia Opperman, a JCTA spokeswoman, denounced the change, both claiming the move would violate current district contracts with their groups because they weren't consulted soon enough.

The board had heard arguments for and against on Dec. 14 and postponed a vote pending union notification. Matteoli said his office didn't receive its copy of the proposal until Dec. 16, and that wasn't time to study it and respond.

The board finally approved Trustee Dorothy D. Adams' motion to continue its CDS coverage for 30 days beyond Jan. 1, with employes expected to pay the difference on the higher rates. In the meantime, CSEA is to be sent a copy of the Great West contract for its perusal.

Both labor groups argued that the dental coverage was a matter for contract negotiations.

Opperman also suggested a retreat, outside of Daly City, with three trustees and five JCTA members to meet "to establish a foundation of mutual trust and respect."

Thanks but no thanks, the board replied

Bocci Ball Court Enclosure in Trouble

Because of some potential problems "we never even thought of," as Daly City Mayor Al Teglia put it, a proposed bocci ball court enclosure at Colma Intermediate School is going to have to await more study.

Teglia asked the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees Wednesday night for some of the district board and staff to join a five-member city committee to look into possible problems of vandalism and rowdiness if the 30-by-70-foot building were erected.

The board named Trustees James Cranna, who resides near the school, and Dorothy D. Adams as its representatives.

The bocci ball court has been at the edge of the school campus for some years, and the city recently produced a plan for the corrugated metal building, at an estimated cost of $8,400.

The City Council heard last week however, that neighbors have complained about noisy young people in the area at night and that the enclosure could become a place for troublemakers to hide or carry on unseen. It also was feared it may become a hangout for drug users.

The Jefferson board tabled the matter until the committee reports back at an unspecified date.

It was thought the enclosure would protect players from inclement weather. Neither the weather, which is often bad, nor bocci ball, enjoyed by much of the large elderly Italian population, is taken lightly in the North County.

Skyline Dedicates New Pasteur Bust

Formal dedication to Skyline College of the bust of Louis Pasteur, presented by former student Atilio E. Zamora of Pacifica and his family, will be Thursday at noon on the San Bruno campus.

The bronze likeness of the famous French scientist, who developed the pasteurizing process (exposing milk to high temperatures to destroy certain microorganisms), is located atop a concrete pedestal in the courtyard between the campus center and main theater.

Eleanore D. Nettle, president of the San Mateo County Community College District Board of Trustees, and District Chancellor-Superintendent Glenn P. Smith are expected to attend the brief ceremony, according to Skyline College President James C. Wyatt.

Zamora, who previously had earned the equivalent of a bachelor of arts degree in his native Honduras, attended Skyline from the school's opening in 1969 until the fall of 1973, when he completed the requirements for an associate in arts degree.

He came to former Skyline College President John C. Petersen and then Dean of Students Wyatt last spring, expressing a desire to do something for the college and the students — to show his gratitude for the help he received in adjusting to American lifestyles.

Zamora had a personal respect for Pasteur and decided to present the bust. Zamora's brother, Mario R. Zamora, a noted Honduran sculpturer, was commissioned to do the bust.

SSF Sailor Visits Iran

Navy Hull Maintenance Technician Fireman Mark E. Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rice, 58 Franklin Ave., South San Francisco, recently visited Bandar Abbas, Iran.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Worden, operating from Yokosuka, Japan. He and his shipmates had the opportunity to visit the Iranian port prior to preparation for a week-long exercise off the Iranian coast with units from Britain, Pakistan, Turkey and Iran. While in port, he participated in athletic events with Iranian sailors.

SAN MATEO COUNTY'S LEADING DAILY NEWSPAPER

Chief Finds 911 Number 'Fantastic'

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Pacifica Police Chief Mel Nelson is in love with a number.

He's enchanted with 911, the emergency number that Pacifica residents may dial to get help in the event of a disaster, be it fire, robbery or heart attack.

"It's fantastic!" Nelson exclaimed. "People who hesitate to call the regular police number will call 911."

Nelson has several phone lines reserved for 911 at police headquarters, so that people calling in to report emergencies never have to hear a busy signal or get stuck on "hold."

The 50 to 60 calls per month that come in on the 911 lines are answered within three rings, Nelson said. Without 911, it was hard to distinguish the true emergencies among the 26,000 calls the police station receives annually.

Pacifica has had 911 since mid-1974, but other cities in San Mateo County probably won't have the number before 1984.

The state legislature originally passed a bill requiring that 911 be in operation throughout California by 1981, but cities and counties balked at the idea because no money was allotted for the changeover.

In 1976, additional state legislation changed the 911 deadline to 1984 and imposed a surcharge of one-half of 1 percent on all telephone cals within California to pay for it.

That surcharge will accumulate $12 million per year. If that's not enough, it could be raised to three-fourths of 1 percent this year.

Kent Paxton, assistant area administrator of the county's Area Disaster Office in Redwood City, said Pacifica installed 911 quickly because it is the only city in the county whose boundaries are similar to those of the central telephone office. It cost "virtually nothing," Paxton said, to route all 911 calls to police headquarters.

In comparison, the South San Francisco central office of Pacific Telephone encompasses part of Daly City, most of South San Fracisco, a portion of unincorporated San Bruno Mountain, the airport, most of San Bruno and half of Millbrae.

Pacific Telephone is attempting to overcome this boundary problem with selective routing of calls. When this system is perfected, a computer will identify the city from which a caller telephones and automatically reroute the 911 call to the proper emergency station.

The 911 switchover also is being delayed by the cities themselves, which sometimes cannot agree on who will answer the 911 calls.

Paxton explained, "Every public safety agency worth its salt wants to answer its own calls."

But the benefits of 911 clearly outweigh the hassles, according to Paxton.

"Everyone I've talked to who lives in an area served by 911 swears by it," he said.

The number, which has been designated for nationwide emergency use, eventually will enable a citizen anywhere in the country to get help by dialing 911.

Paxton commented, "A lot of people think calling the operator is faster. In fact, it's a great deal slower. It's not answered on the first ring, and you never know where the operator is. At various times of the day or week, you can call 'operator' in San Mateo and you may get an operator in San Francisco, San Jose or Walnut Creek."

In addition, he said, 911 drastically reduces the response time to emergencies. "Most people think the response time is measured from the time a person contacts a fire department or ambulance," he remarked. "Actually, the response time starts when the fire starts, or when the person has the heart attack. A lot of time that's taken up is taken up by people who don't know the proper number to call, and who search through the phone book or dial the operator. So 911 will eliminate all that up-front time."

An added bonus, Paxton said, is that 911 can be easily dialed in the dark.

With the exception of Pacifica, which has 911, other cities in San Mateo County currently are preparing plans for implementing the 911 number that will be sent to the state in July. The Area Disaster Office has to place a firm order for service by July 1979.

Meanwhile, Paxton said, residents of cities that don't have 911 should turn to the front of their phone directories to find the proper number to call in the event of an emergency. He encourages people to obtain emergency number stickers from local police and fire departments and to put them on every phone.

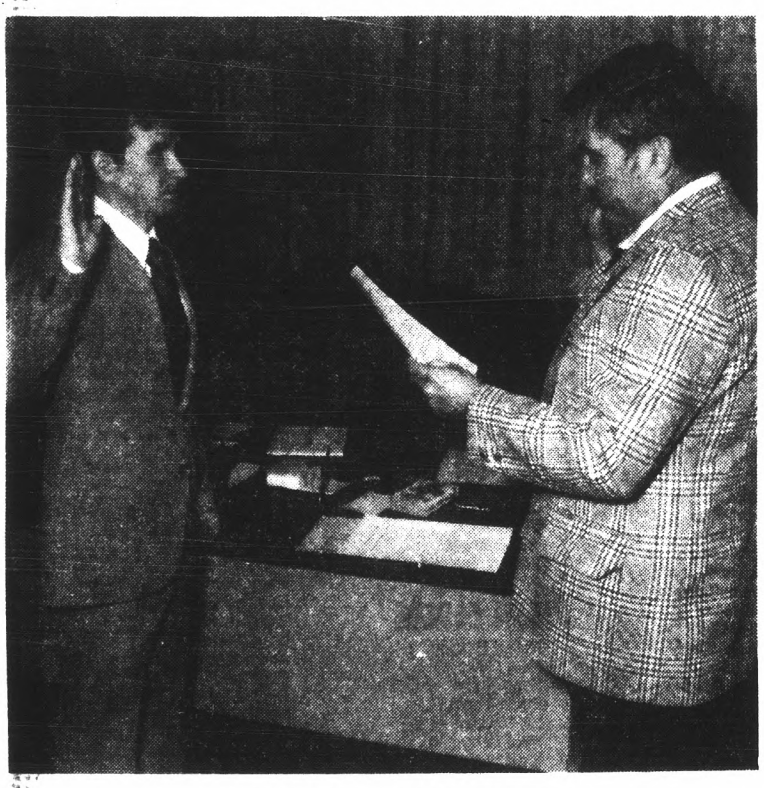
Boy Injured In Car Crash

A 15-year-old boy, apparently lifeless when he was pulled from his overturned car near the Half Moon Bay Airport Monday morning, was reported still alive but in critical condition at Mary's Help Hospital this morning.

Sheriff's Deputies Craig Kerwin and Bill Britschgi said that when they arrived at the accident about 3:30 a.m., they found only the head of the youth protruding from the overturned car. They said they managed to remove the youth from under the car, but could detect no vital signs.

The youth, whose name was not released by authorities because he was driving a car stolen from Burlingame, was taken to the Moss Beach Hospital, where his his vital signs were restored. He was then transferred to Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City.

According to Highway Patrolmen Don Woods and John Pretes, the youth was southbound at 60 to 70 miles per hour when he passed another vehicle. They said when he attempted to turn back into southbound lane, he lost control of the vehicle. As the car rolled over, the youth, from San Fra ncisco, was thrown out and the car rolled over on top of him.



NEW DALY CITY OFFICER

Michael D. Edwards was recently sworn in as police officer with the Daly City Police Dept. by Assistant Chief Richard C. Sims. Edwards is a recent graduate of San Jose State University and will attend the Basic Recruit Training Course in Eureka.

Arsonist Hits

An arsonist is suspected of striking at Abraham Lincoln School in Daly City Wednesday night, setting fire to a counselor's room in the administration wing.

According to firemen, someone set fire to a plastic window just before 7 p.m. Wednesday, with flames igniting draperies and spreading upward to the ceiling, burning it through. Firemen had the fire contained in 1½ hours.

Gene Vinje, Jefferson Elementary School District director of grounds and maintenance, estimated the fire damage at about $2,000. Firemen, however, have set damage estimates at $10,000 with $1,500 to contents and $8,500 structural damage.

Abraham Lincoln school also was the scene of a Dec. 6 fire which burned out the main fire alarm box. The wiring was being replaced and all fire alarm circuits except the one in t he burned room Wednesday night were operating, Vinje said.

Firemen Thursday said the Dec. 6 fire was not started by an arsonist.

Disabled Vets Still Eligible for Training

Veterans of World War II and later periods who have serious service-connected disabilities were reminded today that they may still qualify for vocational rehabilitation (Voc Rehab) training even though their original eligibility for the program has expired.

According to San Francisco Regional Director R. F. Welch, veterans generally had, until last year, nine years from the date of their discharge to take advantage of this kind of training.

"But Congress has eliminated the termination date for certain seriously-disabled veterans," Welch said.

"As a result," he added, "veterans discharged before Jan. 1, 1969 who have serious service-connected disabilities should consider applying if they are unemployed or working in an unsuitable job, and need education or training to obtain suitable work."

Last year's Congressional action provides an open-ended eligibility for veterans who need vocational rehabilitation training to overcome the handicapping effect of blindness or other serious service-connected disability.

Welch said applications for vocational rehabilitation training will be considered individually. Eligible veterans who are found to need training will be provided counseling to help them plan and pursue a program of rehabilitation training leading to suitable employment.

The regional office director said the agency has written to an estimated 8,000 veterans in Northern California who have disabilty ratings of 50 percent or more to notify them of the removal of the eligibility termination date.

Veterans may obtain an application form for vocational rehabilitation by contacting the nearest VA office.

County Said Quite Strict In Sentencing

A watch on San Mateo County Superior Court last month showed that the leniency given criminals nationally and statewide doesn't hold here, a spokesman for the San Mateo County chapter of Citizens for Law and Order told the Kiwanis Club of San Mateo Downtown.

Robert M. Phillips, chairman of the 300-member chapter, said Thursday that of 43 criminal cases of a major nature before the San Mateo County Superior Court in November, 19 defendants went to prison, 19 to San Mateo County Jail, and one each to the California Youth Authority and the California Rehabilitation Center.

Only one got probation, and one was fined.

Detailing that report, Phillips said that of two homicide cases, both defendants got prison terms, as did defendants in two rape cases.

In robberies, three of seven defendants went to prison and four to jail. Seven of 12 burglars went to prison, two to jail, one to CYA, another to CRC and one was fined.

In grand theft cases, one of seven went to prison, six to jail.

That's not the way it is when you look at the national or state figures, Phillips told the businessmen. He noted that since the CLO was formed in Oakland four years ago, it has grown to 5,000 members and, among other things, secured the removal of one judge and the defeat of two others.

He told the Kiwanis that if you divide average time served by the number of felonies, the average convicted felon serves three days per crime. Only 5 percent complete their terms, he said.

Of burglars sent to prison, Phillips asserted, only 6 percent had no prior record.

Inviting the Kiwanis and all businessmen and citizens to join, Phillips admitted the CLO is a "pressure group" but said it is the only one on the side of seeking stiffer sentencing and full terms.

On the other side, he said, pressure groups include the ACLU, lawyers, the Prisoners Union and others.

Phillips told the Kiwanis that one problem not yet solved by CLO is in Sacramento, where this year 32 pieces of anti-crime legislation which had passed the Senate without a single dissenting vote all died in the Assembly's Criminal Justice Committee.

He called the committee a roadblock.

"We don't force issues; we just expose them," he said.

He said CLO has a speakers bureau that can provide up to 20 speakers a month.

The Court Monitor System in San Mateo County, Phillips said, puts four volunteers to work checking every case in the Superior Court System where crime is involved to see if there is unusual leniency.

The volunteers then fill out forms which are sent to the parent organization across the Bay.

"It produces a 'scoreboard of courts,'" Phillips said.

As the type of thing CLO has revealed, he cited a recent case in Oakland where a felon on parole attempted to shoot a storekeeper fleeing from a robber. He merely was sent back to the CYA.

"Fewer than 1 percent of the people are committing all the crimes," Phillips said. "They are the ones who should be behind the locked doors.

"Not all the others."

Skyline May Use Engvall

By BILL HURSCHMANN

Preliminary talks between administrators of Skyline College and the San Bruno Park School District reveal the college is interested in Willard R. Engvall Intermediate School as a satellite college campus.

However, at least as far as the college is concerned, there are still a number of "ifs" and "they are big ifs," Skyline College President James Wyatt said Wednesday.

Trustees of the San Bruno Elementary School District, facing a startling decline in student enrollment predicted for the next five years, acknowledged the fact that at least one school will need to be shut down. Trustees indicated at their Dec. 19 meeting that that school may indeed be Engvall.

"We have heard that there seems to be some fairly definite plans on their (San Bruno Park School District) part to close Engvall, and it doesn't seems to be an unpopular move," Wyatt said. "What we'll have to do now is weigh our needs and our ability to pay."

"We met last week with college officials and toured the school," said San Bruno Superintendent Bill Jennings, "and their reaction seemed favorable as to selecting the site to be used as a satellite for Skyline College.

"I really believe Skyline could make good use of it as a satellite school and that it would be in the best interests of the community. It could be a real boon for San Bruno," Jennings said.

"Engvall's facilities," the superintendent added, "are just perfect for what they need. It looks like it would be a real positive link between our district and the college if the decision were made to close that school."

Engvall School, located on 18 acres on Sneath Lane, is just off Interstate 280, making freeway access easy. In addition, the school itself has 50,000 square feet of floor space and contains a gymnasium, science labs and facilities for arts and crafts classes, all important considerations for Skyline College programs.

Skyline currently uses Engvall for seven evening adult school classes. The college also uses facilities of the South San Francisco Unified School District and the Laguna Salada School District, and has discussions going on with the Jefferson Union High School District as to the availability of classroom space.

"One of our main philosophical considerations," Wyatt said, "is whether we want to congregate all of the offerings we have in small areas to one larger spot (such as Engvall)."

The college president was quick to point out that money, whether it be the cost of buying or leasing the facility, has never been discussed.

"Certainly the monetary situation involved is a great big 'if'," he said. "But there's been no conversation about cost."

Wyatt said all discussions between himself and Jennings "have been at a most preliminary stage. There's been nothing along the lines of anything specific. It's still an open subject with us."

The college is in need of additional space, Wyatt said, particularly during the hours of 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., and in the evenings. Skyline's current enrollment is about 3,500 during the day and 4,500 at night.

"Certainly Engvall would solve all our needs as far as space is concerned," he added, "but of course we must consider its cost and whether the space is too much. We would want to be albe to utilize the space appropriately. It's a good location just off 280 and it is close enough to our present location from the standpoint of supervision and coordination."

Wyatt said during the next week or two, he'll be discussing the matter with his staff and the staff at the San Mateo County Community College District office.

Jennings said he is hopeful Wyatt will have "something positive" by the Jan. 9 board meeting, being held particularly to receive public input on school closures. That meeting will be in the auditorium of Decima Allen School, beginning at 8 p.m.

The San Bruno Park School District, it is predicted, will lose one-third of its students in the next five years. For this school year, the district has 2,892 students enrolled in kindergarten through eighth-grade classes.

Enrollment is expected to drop in each of the next five years, with the total number of students in 1982-83 predicted at 1,891. That represents a loss of 1,001 students during the next five years.

Sandra Tonelli Is Married

United in marriage during a Nuptial Mass, by Right Reverend Monsignor Richard W. Power, pastor of Our Lady of Mercy Church, Westlake, recently were Sandra Tonelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dino H. Tonelli of Daly City, and David Devencenzi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Devencenzi of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. David Devencenzi

The bride wore a long-sleeved, silk organza gown with imported lace and long veil with matching headpiece, carrying white roses with stephonotis and baby breath. Maid of honor duties were performed by Carol Tonelli, sister of the bride, with her other sisters, Diane Rhein, Linda Bohnert and Gina Tonelli as attendants, in addition to her cousin, Christine Rardin and friends, Leslie Fambrini, Ellen Cuneo and Susan Migliori, all from the Peninsula.

Junior bridesmaids were the bride's niece, Bridget Rhein and the bridegroom's cousin, Kelly Power. Bridesmaids all wore sleeveless, rose Qiana with chiffon and carried roses. Flower girls, wearing white eyelet and matching bonnets and carrying small baskets with white and pink miniature carnations, were the bride's niece, Stephanie Bohnert and the bridegroom's cousin, Andrea Cullen. Walking with the flowergirls was Anthony Rhein, ringbearer, the bride's nephew, wearing a white pique suit.

Best man was Dennis Deehan, with ushers Sonny Power, the bridegroom's cousin, Dan Dougherty, Dan Lawson, Jerry Ehrman, Al Commoli and the bride's brothers, Jerry and Paul Tonelli. Ushers were attired in tan tuxedos trimmed with brown velvet.

Clergy sitting on the altar were the bride's cousin, Father Rodney DeMartini, S.M., and Father Brock and Father Parenti.

Following a champagne reception in the foyer of the Airport Hilton's new grand ballroom, a sit-down dinner was enjoyed by guests in the ballroom with music by Marc Hinchman.

Sandra, a registered nurse, is a graduate of Our Lady of Mercy, Saint Rose Academy and University of San Frncisco. David, a graduate of St. Stephens, St. Ignatius and the University of San Francisco and Idaho State University, is now a practicing pharmacist. Keeping pharmacy in the family, David's father, uncle and great-uncle are pharmacists, also Sandi's father, uncle, cousin and brother are pharmacists.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerrold Tonelli

Tonelli Takes a Bride

Nicole Durand, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. Durand, of San Francisco and Jerrold Tonelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dino H. Tonelli of Daly City, were married recently in a Nuptial Mass by Father Gerald Horan at St. Stephen's Church, San Francisco.

The bride wore candlelight satin with appliqued French lace and a three-quarter mantilla of the same lace. Nancy Vujovich, maid of honor and attendants Carol Tonelli and Sandra Devencenzi, sister of the groom, Michele Prator, sister of the bride, Kim Shanley and Susan Tikkanen, wore pale green Qiana and chiffon and carried French mixed nosegays.

The benedict's brother, Paul Tonelli, was best man, with brothers-in-law Edmund Rhein and Edwad Bohnert ushering, as well as Steven Durand, the bride's brother, and Brian Little and Joseph McKenna.

A champagne reception was held at the Lakeside Olympic Club. The couple honeymooned at Lake Tahoe before returning to Idaho State Uniersity where Jerrold will graduate in May from the School of Pharmacy and Nicole will be completing her masters in speech therapy. The newlyweds will make their home in the Bay Area after graduation.

Bromley — Unden

A Thanksgiving day family gathering was the occasion for Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bromley of Daly City to announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Linda, to Douglas M. Unden of Tahoe Pines.

Douglas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Unden of Fair Oaks.

Sharon, the sister of Susan and Paul Bromley, studied at Westmoor High School and the College of San Mateo. Her grandmother is Mrs. Betty Feder of San Mateo.

Her fiance is an alumnus of Bella Vista High School and American River College. The brother of Thomas Unden, he is now employed with the Forestry Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

They will be married May 21 at the Granlibakken Resort Hotel in Tahoe City.

TOTAL MARKET COVERAGE

THE TIMES & THE SOUTH POST

The most effective, efficient means of delivering your advertising message to your customers and potential customers in the heart of San Mateo County.

This is how it works: As an advertiser you get the full 45,000 circulation of The Times or, in the case of preprinted advertising sections, The Times' coverage you select, plus 25,000 circulation of The South Post delivered to non-subscribers of The Times in San Mateo, Foster City, Belmont, San Carlos and Redwood Shores. A total of 51,000 unduplicated circulation in the Total Market Coverage Area (82% penetration of the 61,775 households) and 20,000 circulation of The Times outside the Total Market Coverage Area.

ADVERTISER BENEFITS

Amphlett Printing Company's new TMC plan provides unduplicated high household penetration (82% initially, to be increased as plan expands) that combines the area's most widely read and most frequently used for shopping daily newspaper with a well read, established and accepted weekly newspaper that offers unduplicated household coverage.

This TMC plan offers more than just distribution, it offers proven readership. The Times and The Post have developed and maintained readership by producing the best combination of an excellent editorial product and more local advertising (the second highest read feature of newspapers) than any other newspaper or newspaper combination available in San Mateo County.

NOTE: The Post's unduplicating computerized distribution system began November 16, and will be expanded until all routes in the Total Market Coverage Area have been revised. Circlation of The Post, when the TMC plan is completed, is projected to be between 25,000 and 30,000, which will provide between 80%-90% TMC household penetration.

Plans are now being made to expand the TMC area into Burlingame. The non-duplicating computerized distribution system will be used for delivery of the Recorder-Progress to non-subscribers of The Times.

Dining Spots All Set For a Great New Year

HARRY CURUSIS and MEL CICERO of the BAY-HILL LOUNGE, San Bruno, are all set for a great new year. "We just hope 1978 will be as good to us as '77," said Mel. "THE TRI SOUNDS" are signed up for another full year, which means we look for continued big dance crowds. The three-man group offers a variety of musical sounds Tuesdays through Saturdays, from 9 p.m., for both listening or dancing . . . YOLANDA'S dinner specials (Monday through Thursday) are especially appealing to Senior Citizens and those on a limited budget. Located in the South San Francisco Produce Center, is it any wonder that only fresh fruits and vegetables are served. Live Maine lobster is selected right from the lobster tank in the restaurant . . . As in years past, SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S resolves to maintain the high standards of their service and food, and to make every day like Christmas. The dining room is merry with conversation, and voices are often those of famous entertainers from nearby Circle Star Theater, who make Scotty Campbell's their post-performance headquarters. One of their well-favored specials is The Tartan (prime New York Sirloin Steak and Scampi). Guess who are back in town for the winter months — sweet THERESA and BUD URBAN, who join RICHARD and their lovely mother, HELEN TRAINOR, in greeting the countless Bay Areans who flock to this prestigious Redwood City restaurant . . . The dinner, show, dance package at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE Garden restaurant in San Francisco is a "best bet" for an evening of fine food and entertainment for groups to 200 persons. After enjoying a great meal, guests step into the adjacent LEHR'S CABARET THEATER to see the hit musical comedy, "Get Happy", and to dance. The package includes tax and tips . . . ENRICO ROMANO is delighted with all the rainfall. "It's great to see green hills again," commented the dapper owner of ROMANO'S Italian and Seafood restaurant, which is situated between rolling hills and the coastline of Pacifica in Rockaway Beach . . . The RODEWAY INN, South San Francisco, invites party planners to consider their beautiful banquet facilities for 1978. Available for club gatherings, meetings, showers, anniversaries, and most any group of 10 to 400 persons. Ample free parking . . . The crew at VINCE'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant, and that includes Skipper TONY LICATA, is back on deck to serve a full menu of luncheon and dinner specialties seven days a week. This San Mateo restaurant operation is "smooth sailing" . . . ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, the $1 million restaurant on Geary Street's "Theater Row," features continuous food and beverage service from 11 a.m. to 12:30 a.m., plus a popular Sunday Brunch from 10 a.m. 'till 3 p.m. . . . NICK'S restaurant, THE MOONRAKER, and CAPTAIN CHARLES are vantage points for viewing the rolling surf of the Pacific ocean while leisurely dining. To enhance the scene after dark, the Rockaway Beach frontage is illuminated. . . . PHIL LEHR cooks gourmet steak dishes to order in the elegant dining room of PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower. Phil's incredible Fasar uses magnetic energy to cook steaks to sizzling perfection. It is completely flameless and the surface of the stove is so cool you can place a silk scarf under the pan without scorching it.

Ballroom Dancing

2 Nostalgia Buffs' Revival

By GEORGE GOLDING

Dino Alexander and Bob Ostowari love ballroom dancing.

They believe other people do, too.

They believe in this so much that they have hired Freddy Martin to bring his orchestra Jan 28 to the Airport Hilton hotel, and they have hired the hall for ballroom dancing.

This is a commercial venture, of course, and they hope to make ballroom dancing such a smashing success that Freddy Martin and other big band leaders will return to the Bay Area at least monthly throughout 1978.

Is there a chance of such success?

"The idea is, nostalgia is here," said Alexander. "For two years I have worked with the idea of establishing a ballroom here on the Peninsula. I still have confidence in that idea. This is just our way of causing that to happen."

Alexander had great plans for the Fox Theater in Burlingame two years ago, but could never get sufficient support. By bringing big bands into the area on a monthly basis, he feels such a demand will be created for ballroom dancing that he will be able to establish a permanent place for dancers.

"This year alone, we have contracted for approximately $50,000 to rent ballrooms," said Bob Ostowari, Alexander's partner in International Productions of Belmont.

"People like to get together," said Alexander.

"The younger people, a lot of them, are interested in ballroom dancing. They like the idea of getting closer. What they are waiting for is the chance to get into it without being branded 'squares.'"

They point to the recent success of "tea dancing" during Sunday afternoons at some San Francisco hotels, and the continued popularity of the Ali Baba ballroom in Oakland.

"We went over there Wednesday night," said Dino. "The place was full, people dressed formal and having a good time. People from 25 on up."

"On a Wednesday night it was packed," said Ostowari. "What would it be like on Saturday night?"

Who are these impressarios of the dance?

Bob Ostowari is a native of Persia, educated in India as an engineer, who worked in Tehran transcribing the sounds of America's big bands for musical groups playing for U.S. military personnel.

He has been in the United States since 1970, working as an engineer until two years ago.

"I felt that being in that kind of an office wasn't my thing," he said, "and got into real estate.

"Two years ago, I ran into Dino and we talked about his ideas on ballroom dancing and decided we should give it a push and go all the way."

Dino Alexander is a native of Greece who came to this country 26 years ago started out as a dishwasher at the Fairmont Hotel. He worked his way up to waiter, then maitre' d, then moved from food service to beauty services.

From working as a beautician, he, too, graduated into real estate.
